Excellent access to all that Calgary has to offer and just minutes away. Ogden, which includes the historic neighbourhoods of Millican Estates, Lynnwood, and Ogden Flats, was a small rail town established in 1912. Named after the former Vice President of the Canadian Pacific Railway, it is arguable Calgary would not exist had it not been for the CPR, the Ogden Shops, and their founding of the town of Ogden. The Canadian Pacific Railway is held in high esteem by "Ogdenites", with its world headquarters based directly in the community. With their history tied to rail, it is fitting that the Green Line LRT will have two stations in Ogden, which will bring its neighbourhood feel, opportunities of employment, and arts and culture to the rest of the city like the old Calgary Municipal Railway did more than 100 years ago.
