This community-scale mixed-use hub serves as both a neighborhood and a community 'anchor' and destination, that incorporates and 'Main Street' design concept, and includes a concentration of employment, commercial and community services, civic activities, residential uses, as well as public gathering spaces and a high-quality design and character for the private and public realms. The entire Precinct is intended to be the focal point of the Booth neighborhood as well as the broader community of Brookwood-Ferridge and the rural surrounds. The intensity of the build environment, as well as the design and diversity of uses of the Precinct will create a sustainable walkable community village that provides for the day-to-day needs of the residents and workers of the community.
