Are you tired of your long commute or mundane job, this may be what you're looking for. Steam Donkey Cabins will immerse you in the green lushness and towering trees that North Vancouver Island is renowned for. The forest is at your doorstep and you are a mere stone's throw away from the Salmon River, perfect for an afternoon swim or leisurely float. Located ten minutes from the wharf at Kelsey Bay and spectacular views of Johnstone Strait and Discovery Islands. The property and area offer ample opportunities for a profound connection with nature. Home of the former "Cable House Restaurant" this unusually clad building is an iconic landmark that still brings people calling years after closing the doors. A large covered gazebo provides shade or shelter from the rain, or stroll the 2.5 acres to find the historic logging equipment. Currently the three cabins are offering guests a boutique camping experience with the essence of cabin-living in a warm & charming setting.
