There is something truly special about this beautiful tree-lined street in Inglewood, you simply need to experience it for yourself. Character homes, meticulous yards, mature trees and no multi-family properties create a peaceful setting that is increasingly hard to find. Built in 1920, this home is anything but original. The walls were stripped to the framing, insulated and rebuilt with drywall. Updated hardwood flows throughout the main level, complemented by a newer kitchen, spacious renovated bathroom and an abundance of newer windows. Offering just over 1,108 sq. ft. across two levels, this cozy home is filled with warmth and character. Enjoy views of the picturesque street from the inviting front sunroom, then step outside to the impressive 7,500 sq. ft. lot. Filled with established perennials, the backyard is a private garden paradise. The basement remains unfinished, while the expansive lot may also offer an opportunity to replace the existing garage with something larger, so many possibilities. (id:6769)
