Peachland

RENOVATED. DETACHED CABIN. VIEW. | There's a particular kind of stillness that only exists by the water: slower mornings, longer evenings, the quiet sense that nothing important is happening anywhere else. This Peachland home was renovated around that idea. Set on a corner lot with a view of Okanagan Lake, the three-bedroom residence has been thoughtfully reimagined by its current owners, with whitewashed cedar ceilings, a resurfaced fireplace, and a fully redesigned kitchen anchored by a wine fridge and a carefully edited palette of finishes that carries through the main floor. The ensuite opens into a walk-in rain shower; the lower bath is warmed by heated floors. Outside, a 180-degree wraparound deck, professionally sealed with a zero-seam finish, frames the main living area in lake and mountain views, while a second private deck extends off the primary bedroom. A detached cabin sits on the property, beautifully finished with heat, air conditioning, a kitchenette, and its own deck with an outdoor shower, built as a creative workspace, a quiet office, or a three-season space to host friends on a summer evening. The grounds are finished with hardscape landscaping, a new retaining wall, landscape lighting, and outdoor dining space, with dedicated room for a boat and RV. A home for buyers drawn to design, lake views, and a quieter rhythm, one of the more thoughtfully assemble...
